On the Sixth Day of English Week i.e., on 06.08.2024, Dumb Charades was conducted by the Department. This activity was fun oriented with the blend of literary and non literary elements. The students were divided into six groups and each group consisted of three participants. The students and audience had a great time as it had the movie names and songs of all the languages and the participant had to enact to make their group members realize the name of a particular movie or a song. To make the activity more tricky and interesting, proverbs and literary works were also added in the upcoming rounds. Students Aishwarya and Chandana hosted the whole event with their interactivenss with the help of their seniors from PG Department Ravi and Sanidhya.
